For the folks who are on the fence with cases. Ziptyze cases are really solid for 3d printing, he is super flexible, and as described above, they fit without any mods. In addition if you are buying a steel plate with this drop, this alone will add weight and rigidity to the board overall if you are worried about that type of thing.

Thanks for this. I looked it up and saw this:

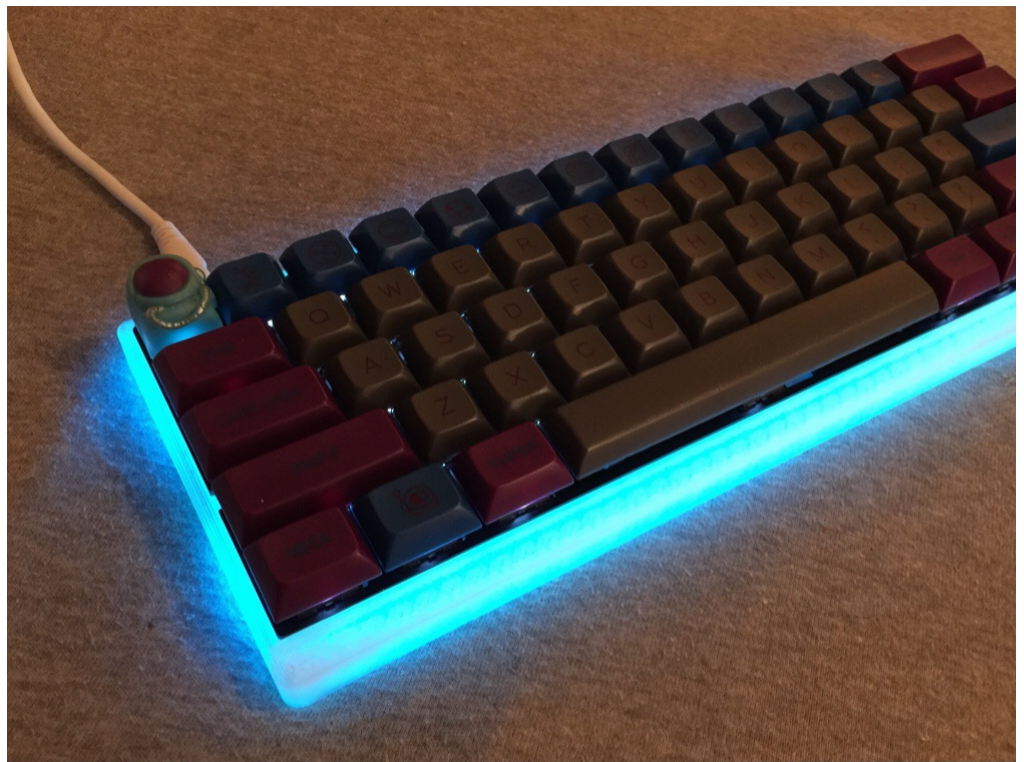

http://1upkeyboards.com/product_info.php?cPath=35&products_id=183

The clear case color looks a bit 'dirty' to my liking, but I hope that's just a bad picture.

Here are some pictures of my orange Ziptyze case.

<http://imgur.com/a/VekbG>

He also make a translucent RGB version that will fit the bface.

I think that's the Clear one in the picture, which suddenly does not show up on the website, must have gotten sold out already. It looks a lot nicer with LED's on than it does with LED's off.

Just message him on reddit as /u/Ziptyze. He will probably make a custom for you. You can also contact him through be if you want 😊

That must've been me that bought the last one. Glad I did.

Sounds like we could almost do a whole group buy for those cases?! 😄 I'd be in.

I have already contacted Zip about the amount of interest this buy is generating in his cases. Waiting to hear back from him about whether or not he will run another groupbuy.

He said that he will run another one later. He asked me to let him know if i wanted to include his cases in my future GBs, that might be an idea?

Anyone interested in this?

I'm definitely interested in cases but I don't like the backlight at all.

You should consider offering cases along with PCB, plates and switches. A sort of DIY kit.

There will also be another groupbuy for Ziptyze's cases if you missed out on his first. Personally I think his trans cases are an amazing low-cost option that go extremely well with the underlighting of winkeyless boards. The opaque cases are also brilliant colors and compliment keysets very well.

The IC thread is available here, and the groupbuy should be starting soon.

<https://geekhack.org/index.php?topic=77570.0>

Keep it on the DL, but I may be able to offer a small discount to those who participated in this groupbuy if they want to pick up a case.
